

Andra-Maria Roescu

Andra-Maria Roescu has graduated in 2008 from the NSPSPA University in Bucharest, majoring in political science. She is currently doing a MA in Political Theory and Political Analysis and another MA in International Relations and European Integration. She is also a gymnasium teacher, teaching civic education. Among her research interests is the democratisation process in Eastern Europe, including the evolution of the school handbooks as part of the democratisation process in the field of education.